Unit - III

3. Write a precis of the following passage and give a suitable title to it: 10
- Wildlife is a valuable asset as a renewable natural resource particularly in developing countries and can contribute to the economy through tourism. Tourism has become the leading industry and an important source of overseas currency. All over the world people go to see and photograph wildlife. If the animals vanished, many of the tourists would stay away. Wildlife if intelligently managed and husbanded can also be a valuable source of much needed protein. When there is an unavoidable collision between the survival of man and the survival of wildlife, human interest is likely to prevail. But such collisions are rare and in most cases a little thought, ingenuity and good will permits coexistence of man and wildlife. We must first learn to recognize that these dangers exist and we ourselves shall be the losses if we do nothing about it. We must make sure that everyone everywhere, understands the threat; accepts the responsibility and realizes that it is in the interest of human progress to avert it.

Foundation Course PAPER SECOND English Language

Unit - I

2. Write an essay on any one of the following in 300 words- 10

- (i) Environmental Pollution
- (ii) Problem of Unemployment
- (iii) Information Technology
- (iv) The impact of Covid-19 on education
- (v) Chhattisgarh – A land of cultural heritage

Unit - II

3. Write a precis of the following passage and give a suitable title to it: 10
Wildlife is a valuable asset as a renewable natural resource particularly in developing countries and can contribute to the economy through tourism. Tourism has become the leading industry and an important source of overseas currency. All over the world people go to see and photograph wildlife. If the animals vanished, many of the tourists would stay away. Wildlife if intelligently managed and husbanded can also be a valuable source of much needed protein. When there is an unavoidable collision between the survival of man and the survival of wildlife, human interest is likely to prevail. But such collisions are rare and in most cases a little thought, ingenuity and good will permits coexistence of man and wildlife. We must first learn to recognize that these dangers exist and we ourselves shall be the losses if we do nothing about it. We must make sure that everyone everywhere, understands the threat; accepts the responsibility and realizes that it is in the interest of human progress to avert it.

It is very easy to acquire bad habits, such as eating too many sweets or too much food or drinking too much of wine or smoking. The more we do a thing, the more tend to like doing it; and if do not continue to do it, we feel unhappy. This is called the force of habit which should be fought against. Things which may be very good when only done from time to tie, tend to become useful and beneficial when done too often and too much. This applies even to such good things as work or rest. Some people form a bad habit of working too much, and others of idling too much. The wise men always remembers that this is true about himself and checks any bad habit. He say to himself, "I am now becoming idle." or "I like too many sweets" or "I smoke too much" and then adds, "i will get myself out of this bad habit at once"

Unit - III

3. Write the precis of the following passage and suggest a suitable title for it : 10

Destruction of forest has a major impact on the productivity of our agricultural land. This happens in two ways. Soil erosion increases manifold and the soil liberally gets washed away, leading to an accentuated cycle of floods and drought. But equally important is the impact of the shortage of fire wood on the productivity of agricultural lands. When firewood becomes scarce, people begin to burn cow dung and crop wastes. In many places cow dung and crop wastes are now the major sources of cooking energy. Thus slowly every part of the plant gets used and nothing goes back to the soil. Over a period of time the nutrient drain affects productivity. Then came the technology of the Green Revolution - the technology of growing high yielding varieties on a limited diet of chemical fertilizers like nitrogen, phosphates and potash. The total production goes up and so does the drain of the nutrients from the soil.
